

An essay from Nepal, part of a local adaptation of the popular, U.S.-based This I Believe radio series, was chosen for broadcast on National Public Radio on February 15, 2009. With USAID/OTI-assistance, This I Believe is being adapted and aired in Nepal through a local television, radio, and print media. The program in Nepal is the first adaptation of This I Believe series outside of North America and is providing a platform for many Nepalese to share and voice their inspirational stories.